

Chris Williams

Chris Williams is a former special school teacher and founder of Chatta, a powerful evidence-informed teaching approach which uses digital technology to link experiences with language and memory.

Chatta was named as one of 2019's Global HundrED leading education innovations at a ceremony in Helsinki, Finland, a city which has embraced the Chatta approach.

Chris has presented his work at conferences around the world including at Atlanta in the US and Kuala Lumpur in Malaysia.

Chatta makes an impact in many areas of learning - from early years to exam level senior students, special needs including autism and dyslexia, and in the learning of languages.

Chris is proud that his work is used in many hundreds of schools with the impact being consistently reported as "life-changing" "unprecedented" and "phenomenal".

Chris continues to work as a teacher in Yorkshire in the UK, and is always happy to share his ideas and experience and is driven by an unwavering commitment to give every child every opportunity to succeed in life.

www.chattalearning.com